

Statutory report on corporate governance for the financial year 2012, cf. Section 107 b of the Danish Financial Statements Act

This statement forms part of the management's review in the Novozymes Annual Report covering the period 1 January – 31 December 2012.

MANAGEMENT

Novozymes has a two-tier management system in which the Board of Directors and the Executive Management are responsible for managing the company's affairs. The Board of Directors is currently comprised of nine people, three of whom have been elected by the employees and six of whom have been elected at the Annual Shareholders' Meeting. The Board of Directors has established one committee: the Audit Committee, currently consisting of three members of the Board of Directors assisting the Board of Directors in monitoring aspects relating to accounting, auditing, and internal control. The Executive Management consists of six people who are responsible for the day-to-day management of the company, observing the recommendations, guidelines and decisions issued by the Board of Directors.

INTERNAL CONTROL AND RISK MANAGEMENT SYSTEM RELATING TO FINANCIAL REPORTING

Novozymes' risk management and internal controls relating to its financial reporting are organized for the purpose of

1. ensuring the presentation of management accounts that allow the Novozymes Group's performance to be measured, evaluated, and monitored, and
2. ensuring the presentation of financial statements that comply with International Financial Reporting Standards, as adopted by the EU, and other additional Danish disclosure requirements for the annual reports of listed companies, and that provide a true and fair view without material misstatement.

The Novozymes Group's internal controls and risk management systems are updated on an ongoing basis and have been designed with a view to discovering and eliminating errors and defects in the financial statements, but as there is always a risk of misuse of assets, unexpected losses, etc., the internal controls and risk management systems can only provide reasonable and not absolute security that all material errors and defects have been discovered and rectified.

The internal controls and risk management systems also cover the environmental and social data reproduced in the Novozymes Report.

Overall control environment

Responsibility for maintaining effective internal controls and a risk management system in connection with financial reporting rests with Executive Management. Executive Management has designed and implemented controls considered necessary and effective in terms of countering the identified risks relating to financial reporting.

The Board of Directors and Executive Management of Novozymes are composed so as to provide relevant expertise in risk management and assessment of internal controls in relation to financial reporting.

Novozymes' Executive Management has defined a number of policies, standards, and procedures, including

- Financial and legal policy
- Treasury policy
- IT security policy
- Business integrity policy

The relevant policies are reviewed by the Audit Committee.

A description of the Novozymes Group's overall policies and the Group's positions and values can be found at www.novozymes.com.

Novozymes' Board of Directors has appointed an Audit Committee that monitors the adequacy of the Group's internal controls on an ongoing basis and assesses material risks in connection with the financial reporting process. The Audit Committee further evaluates each year if there is a need for an internal audit function. For now this has not been deemed necessary. The Board of Directors and Executive Management receive minutes of meetings of the Audit Committee.

A clear organizational structure has been established with a view to effective segregation of duties, with the finance and IT functions reporting directly to the Chief Financial Officer. Rotation for managers in key positions in the global finance function is practiced. An annual review is carried out of the organization of the global finance function to ensure that adequate expertise is in place in all key positions in the Group.

Novozymes has established a whistleblower function with the purpose of ensuring that both Novozymes' employees and external parties can report any concerns in respect of breaches of laws, company policies or guidelines, or any incidents of neglect.

Risk assessment

The Board of Directors and Executive Management continuously assess the risks to which the Group is exposed, including those that impact on the financial reporting process.

At least once a year Executive Management and the Audit Committee consider whether new internal controls should be implemented to mitigate identified risks.

In addition, the Audit Committee reviews:

- Significant accounting topics
- Significant changes to accounting policies
- Significant estimates

Control activities

A comprehensive quality management system has been established for the global finance function to ensure compliance with the above. This includes uniform requirements of the global internal controls that must be carried out to ensure reliable financial reporting. As part of this, control activities have been established with the purpose of discovering and eliminating any errors and defects in the data used in preparation of the financial statements.

New employees are given an introduction to the quality management system to ensure that they understand their role within internal control in the Group. Updates to the system are communicated on an ongoing basis.

Procedures have been established to ensure that Novozymes complies with the relevant legislation and other regulations in connection with financial reporting. The Audit Committee is informed on an ongoing basis of significant changes to the legislation.

IT systems

Novozymes has a common global IT setup that contains key data in relation to financial reporting and ensures a high degree of uniformity and transparency in systems and figures. Decisions and analyses are carried out on the basis of up-to-date and relevant data. The IT systems are secured by means of general IT controls, and the ERP systems also contain automated application controls that are reviewed on an ongoing basis.

Monitoring

The consolidation of data reported by subsidiaries is performed by a central function, and procedures have been established to ensure that any errors and defects in reported data are communicated to and corrected by the subsidiaries. Control of the monthly financial reporting is performed both locally and globally by a central function.

In connection with preparation of the annual financial statements, additional analyses and control activities are carried out to ensure that the financial reporting takes place in accordance with the IFRS rules described under Accounting policies in the notes to the consolidated financial statements.

A review of the internal controls is carried out each year, based on a number of internal and external assessments. This review is submitted to the Audit Committee.

Checks on compliance with the controls of the quality management system in the individual companies are carried out on an ongoing basis and reports submitted to Finance Management and the external auditor.

The Audit Committee follows up on measures taken to rectify weaknesses in internal controls identified and reported by the auditor elected by the shareholders meeting, as well as errors and defects in the financial statements, and ensures that controls and procedures are implemented to counter these errors and defects. The topics that have been considered by the Audit Committee during 2012 can be found under Corporate Governance in the Investor section at www.novozymes.com.

PRINCIPLES OF GOOD CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

Corporate governance, defined as “the system used to lead and control a business”, is largely built into the requirements on boards laid down in the Danish Companies Act. The Board of Directors and the Executive Management of Novozymes believe that corporate governance initiatives should be a constant process in which the principles of good corporate governance are continuously evaluated with due consideration to current legislation, practice and recommendations. Such evaluation includes a review of the company’s business concept, business procedures, goals, organization, capital position, stakeholder relations, risks and the control systems.

Once a year the Board of Directors considers the Danish Committee on Corporate Governance’s recommendations for good corporate governance.

As required for a listed company on Nasdaq OMX Nordic under the rules for issuers of shares, Novozymes issues the below statement of compliance with the Danish Committee on Corporate Governance’s recommendations using the "comply or explain"-principle. The recommendations have been published at www.corporategovernance.dk.

Recommendations for good corporate governance

Novozymes’ position on the individual recommendations is described in the following. The recommendations specify that it is equally legitimate for a company to provide an explanation, as to comply with a specific recommendation, as the key issue is to create transparency in corporate governance matters.

Recommendation	Novozymes complies (Yes/No)	Novozymes complies/does not comply with the recommendation due to the following reason:
1. The role of the shareholders and their interaction with the management of the company
1.1. Dialogue between the company and its shareholders
1.1.1. The Committee recommends that the central governing body, for example through investor relations activities, ensure an ongoing dialogue between the company and its shareholders in order that the central governing body knows the shareholders' attitude, interests and views in relation to the company and that investor relations material be made available to all investors on the company's website.	Yes	Dialogue between Novozymes and its shareholders takes the form of webcasts of the Annual Shareholders' Meeting, analysts' meetings with Executive Management and Investor Relations, webcasts of the quarterly conference calls, and more than 400 meetings a year with institutional investors in Europe, North America, and Asia. Novozymes also participates in more than 20 institutional investor seminars in Europe and the USA each year. In addition, Novozymes communicates with private shareholders through participation in various events arranged by Danish stockbrokers or the Danish Shareholders Association. Novozymes communicates with its shareholders via telephone, e-mail, The Novozymes Report, company announcements, and the website.
1.2. Capital and share structure
1.2.1. Yes	The Board of Directors considers the company's capital and share structures on a regular basis, and at least once a year, to ensure the best possible long-term structure for Novozymes. Novozymes therefore sets targets for sustainability performance and strives to be the best among its peers.

Recommendation	Novozymes complies (Yes/No)	Novozymes complies/does not comply with the recommendation due to the following reason:
		Openness and transparency are key in Novozymes' approach to stakeholders. Novozymes strives to provide stakeholders with relevant information about our business practices. Active stakeholder engagement is a high priority no matter whether it is ad hoc or continuous engagements such as formal networking, roundtables, partnerships etc. To better understand our stakeholders and take their concerns into account, we have developed generic and tailor made tools for specific business activities. We apply these tools across our business functions to map stakeholders and their priorities, develop engagement plans and facilitate as well as manage engagements as part of our business practices. In addition, numerous meetings are held each year, for example with investors, politicians, customers, neighbors, and NGOs, with the aim of learning from each other to the benefit of Novozymes' business. The dialogue Novozymes conducts with its stakeholders also provides Novozymes with the opportunity to promote its views, solutions, etc. and Novozymes wishes to ensure this is done in a respectful manner that does not jeopardize its reputation. Novozymes has therefore drawn up a number of principles for how Novozymes can try to influence its stakeholders in an ethically acceptable way. We thus have a management standard that defines good business practice for our interaction with authorities, decision-makers, and political parties. Moreover, Novozymes has a dedicated Stakeholder Relations unit and the Vice President of Stakeholder Relations is a member of Executive Management. Finally, once a year the Board of Directors holds an off-site board meeting with a particular focus on the company's strategy. Novozymes' stakeholders are discussed in this connection.
